CONFESSES TO KILLING WEALTHY WIDOW

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., June 25.—Lawrence Kubal, 26, a farm laborer, who, police said, confessed to the murder of Mrs. Minnie S. Bartlett, wealthy widow, in her home here last Wednesday, was formally charged with the crime early today after he had repeated his statement to District Attorney Weeks.

Kubal's alleged confession contained the statement that he killed Mrs. Bartlett with a chisel while on his second visit to the house under pretext of purchasing the property. Police said Kubal told them he had never heard of Mrs. Bartlett until the morning of the murder. He was on his way to the house to look for work when he noticed small boys stealing cherries from the orchard, he was reported to have said, and asked them if they were not afraid they would be caught. The boys gave Kubal the first intimation that a wealthy widow lived alone in the house.

Kubal was said to have told the police he had asked Mrs. Bartlett for the hundred dollars and that she refused. She twisted a fountain pen viciously and this caused it to come into his mind to kill her, according to the police. First, however, police said, he confessed to struggling with her and it was after he had thrown her to the floor that he saw her trying to loosen the cap of the pen.

Kubal was arrested at his home, where he remained after the murder, refusing to leave in search of work. He had shaved off his moustache and was said to have told members of his family that he had killed a woman.

This fact became known and led to his arrest.

Kubal was born in Poland and has a wife and two children. He has served short prison sentences in New Jersey.

Curb Market's New Home

New inside quarters for New York's curb market, showing the trading floor.

The Curb Market Association of New York city will soon desert the quarters on the pavement of Broad street for a warm, dry and hand-some new building on Trinity place. The photo shows the trading floor of the curb's new quarters, which is rather more dignified than the dingy windows full of snappy office boys semaphoring orders, but perhaps there will be less excitement here. A new out-of-door curb market, however, is scheduled to take the place of the old one doing a similar trading business.

HARDING IS DISPLEASED WITH RAILROADS IN DELAY IN SETTLING WAR CLAIMS

(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Harding revealed to the western bankers who gathered at the White House a significant impatience with those railroad executives who have neglected to come to Washington and straighten out the large claims which they have against the government as a result of war operations of the roads.

While the first conference with the eastern bankers covered the subject of foreign trade and the handling of foreign loans, the second session at which bankers from the west were invited found interest concentrated on the railroad problem. Mr. Harding asked for views on the business situation throughout the country and sought direct information as to methods of alleviating the present depression. At practically every turn the railroad question thrust itself forward. It was brought out clearly for instance that because the purchasing power of the railroads had been diminished, so the query naturally suggested itself as to how the railroads could increase their purchases and a great many of the bankers present seemed to think of war claims would be a valuable stimulus to the railroads. ## Denby "Publicly"

"I Got What I Deserved, Same Old Thing"—Sims

Reprimands Sims

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—Secretary of the Navy Denby late yesterday "publicly" reprimanded Rear Admiral William S. Sims, as a result of the speech of the admiral made in London, June 7, in which he criticized Sims' policies in America.

In the reprimand, Mr. Denby pointed out that once before the navy department had found it necessary to take similar action against the officer for an address delivered in London in 1911, and referring to the text of that reprimand, added:

"Your remarks on the occasion now under discussion, therefore, constitute a flagrant and deliberate disregard of specific instructions."

While the naval secretary was making public the reprimand, Admiral Sims was calling on President Harding at the White House. It was explained that the admiral called to leave his card, as is the custom when a high naval officer returns from a trip abroad, but that the president invited him to chat for a few minutes.

Upon leaving the White House, Admiral Sims, referring to the reprimand, said: "I got what I deserved, the same old thing."

So far as could be learned the reprimand was not mentioned during the admiral's visit to the president.

Admiral Sims added that he regretted having caused the administration any inconvenience, but said that he now considered the incident closed.

The admiral's reply

There was attached to the secretary's edict a copy of Admiral Sims' reply, in which he said his remarks were not prepared in advance. Before leaving London, however, his reply says he prepared a copy of what he said with the assistance of London newspapers and Commander Land, manded."

Sims' Reply

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Admiral Sims, referring to the reprimand by Secretary Denby, said: "I got what I deserved, the same old thing."

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Secretary Denby's reprimand issued in part:

"The department is not unmindful of your record, and achievements as an officer of the navy, but the conspicuous position which you now hold, coupled with the fact that you have previously offended in similar manner, merely serves to add to the gravity of the present offense."

"The department deprecates the fact that it is necessary to rebuke a flag officer in public, but you have made such action unavoidable."

"The department expresses its strong and unqualified disapproval of your conduct in having again delivered a highly improper speech in a foreign country and you are hereby publicly reprimanded."

The post office robbery occurred early on the morning of February 17, when six men held up two postal employees at the main post office and stole eleven mail bags, a number of which contained registered mail.

The loot, including liberty bonds and cash, amounted to more than a million dollars.

A number of the defendants are accused of actually staging the robbery, but the trial which has just been completed was for conspiracy only.

The trial began three weeks ago. There originally were eighteen defendants. Three of them pleaded guilty and received minor sentences. The indictments against two others, one a woman, were quashed on motion of Stuart Dolin, the government prosecutor.

DR. SNIVELY CHOSEN TO HEAD HEALTH POST IN DAVIS'S NEW CABINET

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—Dr. Harry H. Snively, of Columbus, surgeon general of the Ohio National Guard, was today appointed by Governor Harry L. Davis to be director of the department of health, of the state of Ohio under the governmental reorganization plan to go into effect July 1.

Dr. Snively, the new health director, is a native of Brownsville, Jackson county, and a graduate of Ohio State University. His broad experience in general health work is said to fit him exceptionally for the task assigned to him. He won international recognition by his services along sanitary and general health lines during and after the world war, both at home and abroad.

In 1915, Dr. Snively was sent to Russia by the American Red Cross, as director in chief of its work there. He received the title of brigadier general in the Russian service. When American troops were mobilized for Mexican border service he relinquished his title, and immediately left Russia to serve with Ohio troops on the border. During all of the period America was in the world war, he was in active service with the 37th division. At the

TEST SUIT AGAINST VOLSTEAD PROVISIONS

CHICAGO, June 25.—A suit to test provisions of the 18th amendment and the Volstead law was filed in United States district court today by former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis in an attempt to recover whiskey valued at five hundred thousand dollars stored in Chicago warehouses.

The plaintiffs are distillers and owners of bonded whiskey. The bill does not attack the validity of the prohibition amendment or of the Volstead law, but alleges no provision of either measure can apply to whiskey deposited in government warehouses by the direction of the government before either measure was passed, where the goods are now owned by the same owners who deposited the liquors on a contract to have it returned when the government tax was paid.

The principal new point of the complaint is that the provision of the constitution against manufacture of liquor referred to manufacture after, and not before passage of the amendment.

The complainants, who state they do not desire to use the liquor for beverage purposes, ask for a mandatory injunction compelling the collector of internal revenue to order government warehouses to deliver the property to the holders of the certificates, and enjoining national and state officers from interference after the owners have taken possession of the liquor, claim they have a right, under the law, to sell the whiskey for medicinal or mechanical purposes.

Evasion In Jap Census Figures, Claim

SACRAMENTO, CAL., June 25.—A telegram requesting an investigation of federal census figures showing the Japanese population of California to be 71,942 was forwarded to Senator Hiram W. Johnson by State Controller John Sculmberg today.

"The federal census figures on Japanese population in California are extremely incorrect," the telegram stated. "The bureau of vital statistics has proved by checking up the death lists of Japanese that there are at least 100,000 here. State figures tally with the federal census on every race except Japanese and it appears that approximately 48,000 have escaped the census. This evasion is just another attempt to discredit the seriousness of the Oriental issue."

Harmon, her 19-year-old stepson, last Sunday morning, the police said today. Mrs. Harmon said she killed the youth with an axe and threw the body into a well where it was found Friday by a neighbor.

Mrs. Harmon told the authorities her stepson assaulted her last Saturday night. He had been drinking, she said, and threatened her if she told of the assault.

Continuing the quarrel Sunday morning in the kitchen of their home at Green Ridge she told the police, she struck the youth three times with an axe. She put the body in a box and dragged it to a shed, where it remained all day Sunday. "That night she said she dug a hole and buried the body."

The next day Mrs. Harmon went to Gillespie, where she mailed a letter to the boy's grandmother, saying he had been kidnapped and was held for ransom, according to her story. At daybreak Wednesday Mrs. Harmon said she dug up the body, tied several pieces of it around the neck and dragged it to the well nearby. After slaying the youth, Mrs. Harmon said, she scrubbed the kitchen and tore paper off in an effort to remove blood stains. Her hands were sore from the way she used, officers said.

Chemistry
Used To Halt
Sluggers

NEW YORK, June 25.—Chemistry has been enlisted to aid pitchers in their efforts to stop the valanche of heavy hitting in the big leagues. A Philadelphia scientist has invented a moist chalk line substance, which, rubbed on a brand new ball, roughens the glass surface and gives the twirler a firm grip.

The umpires, not the pitchers, rub this unnamed substance on the horseshoe. The experiment was tried at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, a few days ago. It was tried again at the Yankee-Washington game yesterday and Carl Mays, the New York pitcher, said: "It's fine. It gives a pitcher a chance to throw a curve ball. I would have won five more games this year if we had it all along."

Walter Johnson, of Washington, also likes it. Umpires Nallin, Chill and Owens, who have coated the balls, said they would recommend its approval to the heads of the major leagues.

Monthly Musical At 1st Church Sunday Night

Another of the enjoyable monthly Sunday evenings at the First Presbyterian church, which the organist, Mrs. J. M. Stockham has arranged and directed during the past year, will be given tomorrow evening at seven thirty. This, the final program until September, when the cantata "Ruth" will be presented, is unusually attractive, and a splendid audience is anticipated.

One of the features will be Mr.
Clyde L. Knost, whose base solos Portsmouth always greatly enjoys. Mr.
Knost, with his great voice, will sing
"Invocation," by Mariani. Another appealing solo will be Mrs. J. M. Le-Van, of Lebanon, Pa., who will play a double violin number for Offertory.
(a) Viennese Popular Song, by Fritz Kreider, and (b) "Am Meer," by Schubert-Wilhelm. At the Musiele Friday afternoon Mrs. LeVan stamped herself upon the Portsmouth musical mind as an artist indeed, and her selections will be eagerly awaited.
Mrs. O. C. Deitzler's beautiful soprano will be heard to advantage in Gounod's trist "O Divine Redeemer," her sister, Mrs. LeVan playing a violin oblitato.

The double quartets have been a most attractive feature of Mrs. Stock-ham's programs this year, and two great selections are arranged for tomorrow night, and one of two new voices being heard in them. "Lift up Your Heads," by E. L. Ashford, and
"The Lord Brings Back His Own," by Lamont Galbraith. The personnel of the double quartet will be as follows:

Soprano, Mrs. O. J. Deitzler and Mrs. R. G. Gilmore of Sciotoville.
Contraltos, Mrs. Chas. Stock and Miss Lou Sommers.
Tenors, Mr. J. E. Lodwick and Mr.
Albert Wilhelm.
Basses, Mr. Wm. H. Schwartz and Mr. Clyde L. Knost.

Mrs. J. M. Stockham, whose organ programs are always a vital part of every program, will play "To Spring," by Frieis-Lemare, and Postlude, by F. A. Lal.

A ten minute sermon, in the full spirit of the evening's musical atmosphere, will be presented by the Rev.
J. M. LeVan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lebanon, Pa.

A most cordial invitation is again extended to the music lovers and those who have enjoyed these programs the past year, to avail themselves of this final opportunity of the season tomorrow night.

Tomorrow morning at First Church
the Lord's Supper will be administered, and new members received. Mr.
Clyde L. Knost will sing at this service also, his selection being "The Lord's Supper," by Johnston. The usual large attendance of the congregation at this service is anticipated.

The pastors of New Boston churches desire to thank the School Board for the use of the Greenwood High School building for the Daily Vacation Bible school. Without the use of the school building the school would have been impossible. No small task to handle one hundred and seventy five children with the limited teaching force. The pastors are giving full time to the school each morning. All their helpers give their time. The pastors greatly appreciate their help and realize what a sacrifice they are making to thus give their time.

Registration closes on Monday, June twenty-seven. After that date new pupils will not be admitted. Each pupil should make this announcement in his services Sunday. The twenty-sixth. Provision will be made for all that enroll Monday. Parents send your children. They will receive much good.
Parents are welcome to visit any class at any time. The co-operating churches in one common effort is of itself a splendid achievement. Beginning with the second Sunday in July and continuing through August the churches will hold union services on the lawn of the Methodist Episcopal church, as they have electric lights on the lawn and are centrally located.

The various pastors will take turns in preaching.

street.

Collapse In Livestock Is Predicted

SAINT LOUIS, Mo., June 25.—A collapse in the livestock industry was depicted by speakers at the convention of the National Trades Livestock Exchange, which concluded its session today.

The moving of feeding stock from western ranges to farms has virtually ceased, the speakers said and an almost complete paralysis of sheep and cattle raising has resulted in a flood of inferior material to the markets.

"Two disastrous collapses of the men to turn their attention to grain two years have forced thousands of direction of the government before growing in order to meet the demands of the banks which hold their notes," said John F. Hoddington, a Saint Louis broker. "Young calves are being rushed to market rather than to the feed lot."

THE MOVIES

Positively the Last Showing Tonight at the Eastland Theatre. Stewart Edward White's Greatest Novel. "The Killer," a Wonderful Picture and Larry Semon in His New Comedy "The Rent Collector," a Screen Program.

A-Overture—"Bon Homme" (my man) the French sensation, Eastland Orchestra.

B-Larry Semon in "The Rent Collector."

C—"The Emerald Isle" a Kinetograph subject with music.

D-Stewart Edward White's "The Killer."

Everyone loves clean, stirring, breathless melodrama. It fascinates. Stronger is its lure when there is a beautiful girl in distress, helpless and hopeless, in the clutches of a superman who loves music. It is a charming host, but who at heart is a crafty killer.

Doesn't your blood boil when you think of that girl's plight, or are you skeptical?

Samborn, a New Yorker, in Arizona for his health was a "show me." And when the killer's net tightened around him—well, hold your breath!

You know how Stewart Edward White's novel drew you out of your spirit. "The Killer" is his most powerful.

It has our personal unqualified endorsement.

Larry Semon has produced another riot of fun, using for his chief malefactor the ever popular rent collector.

Larry takes a job as rent collector and gets into all sorts of trouble. In this comedy Larry introduces many new stunts. As usual he injects a number of thrills which end with comedy twists. He introduces a trick canary that squirts water or milk into the faces of those it dislikes. There is also the slapstick comedy, so popular with both young and old. Larry smashes several hundred dollars' worth of statuary, a complete assortment of fresh fruits and vegetables, an automobile and breaks up a barber shop, to say nothing of spilling several barrels of tar and wrecking a three story house and contents. It is one of the funniest comedies Larry has ever produced and contains a logical story, which is easy to follow.

LITTLE TRADING GOING ON IN BIG LEAGUES; PLAYERS INVOLVED IN RECENT ONE

The big league season to date has been a quiet one so far as trading of players is concerned. The most recent deal which aroused any interest was the swapping of Jeff Pfeffer by the Dodgers for Hal Janvyn and Ferdie Schupp of the Cardinals. The deal had been hanging fire for some time. Branch Rickey wanted Pfeffer but refusing to give up Milton Stock in the trade. Finally Manager Robinson of the Dodgers decided to take infielder Janvyn and pitcher Schupp. The Dodgers are in need of a second baseman. Janvyn no doubt will jump right in at second base for the Dodgers. He is hitting .290 and is a first class fielder. Pete Kilduff has been having trouble with a leg all season and has been forced to play at times when he should have been in an infirmary. The deal looks like an excellent one for the Brooklyn, and it may be of great help to the Cards, too. They have a hard hitting outfield, but have not been getting the best of pitching.

Janvyn will be 29 in August. He got his professional start with the Red Sox in 1911, jumping right into the big show from one of the Boston high schools. Boston sent him to Jersey City and then recalled him. He was traded to Washington and then released to the Cards. He also can play the outfield.

Luckily, Mr. Andres was near by in a boat and when he saw the lad struggling in the water he got to the scene as quickly as possible and reached the lad as he was going down for the third time. The rescuer pulled the young man into the boat and took him to shore. When he was gotten ashore he was stretched out and resuscitation methods applied. The lad had evidently swallowed a small quantity of water and was unable to speak. He recovered from his experience rapidly, however, and was a little worse for his experience later in the evening.

SOCIETY

Concerning the meeting of the W. F. M. S. of the Portsmouth and Ironton groups, held at Ironton, Thursday, the Ironton Register says: "The joint group meeting of Ironton and Portsmouth W. F. M. S. was held at Ironton, Thursday, June 23rd."

It was a time long to be remembered, because of the large attendance and interest in the work. The group leaders, Mrs. A. Crumston and Mrs. T. H. Wright had prepared a fine program and every member on it was present and well prepared. From Crown City and all along the line to Old Town they came and were met at the depot by automobiles and taken to the M. E. church, nestled in a grove, where the ladies were greeted with a cordial welcome. The church was decorated with beautiful flowers. At ten o'clock the session was opened by singing "Jesus Shall Reign Where'er the Sun." Devotional service conducted by Mrs. W. T. Blume, which gave the keynote for the day. An address by Rev. Lamb, pastor of the church on "Internationalism" was well received for the organization is trying to do its best to bring it about. "Introductory Prayer," by Mrs. O. A. Schweikart. Places for the Fourth quarter of the year were presented by Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Ella J. Mackay. She urged that Memorial members at $50 be made by individuals or society, the money to be placed in the Retirement Fund for mission, where they must return to the states on account of age or broken down health. For the happy event, the church was beautiful with floral decorations together with an altar of palms and ferns, before which the young couple stood to take their marriage vows. # A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

CHERRY SOUNDS NED.

"Ned, what sort of a girl is Arline Bates?" questioned Cherry as the two sat down before the open window to enjoy the moonlight before turning in for the night.

"Miss Bates? Why, a mighty fine one, from all I know," answered her husband warmly. "She is a splendid little worker and she knows how to mind her business, which is something most of the girls here do not know how to do."

"She seems to have had considerable experience," went on Cherry thoughtfully.

"Experience? What sort of experience do you mean, Cherry?" asked Ned.

"Oh, just everyday experience. Had lots of positions and plenty of head-dancing attendance on her, according to her own story. Then she's had that heart affair back in Kansas City, you know, the one you mentioned to me a time back. Disappointment or something, poor girl."

"Oh, that! Yes, so she has, and nearly all the fellows here have fallen for her hard at some time or other. That's why Arline Bates is not particularly popular with the women folks. Women certainly can be mean to each other. That's what I like about you, lady-bird; you are always so generous about other women. It makes a fellow proud, honest."

"I try to be at least. Neddy boy, though I don't always succeed as well as I should like to. But Miss Bates puzzles me, somehow or other."

"Why?" asked Ned.

"Oh, something that I don't seem to be able to put my finger on, exactly. She appears most frank and yet again I seem to fancy that she is laughing at me and at everyone around her. Have you noticed this?"

"No, all imagination. Miss Bates is as frank and fine a girl as you could meet anywhere. She has always been the soul of humor, as well as scrupulously straight in other ways. When you think that she might be laughing at her own Rolls Royce at this minute, but for the spunk that's in her, well you've just got to give her credit."

"I suppose so. But why on earth isn't she rolling round in her own car and her own corner of the earth, too, for that matter? Why should she select a small town like this to settle in?"

"And why on earth, with all her opportunities, should a girl like that get engaged to a country doctor? I cannot understand it at all, darling."

"And I'm too sleepy to sit up any longer trying to solve the problems concerning Miss Bates or anyone else, lady-bird. I walked all over town looking for you, after dinner, and I'm dead beat. Do let's go to sleep."

"All right," answered Cherry, mentally wondering why it was that Ned always avoided any discussion on the subject of Miss Arline Bates.

BILIOUS CHILDREN

Black-Draught, Long in Successful Use, Praised by an Arkansas Mother, "Soon Does Its Work."

Marmaduke, Ark.—Speaking of Theodore's Black-Draught, which from long use in her household has become regarded as "the family medicine," Mrs. Mary E. Hill, of Route 1, this place, says:

"When the children get bilious, I give them a couple of good doses, and when we have sour stomach, headache, or any liver or stomach trouble, we use Black-Draught. It is an easy laxative, and soon does the work. I certainly think it is one of the best remedies made."

Black-Draught acts on the jammed liver, gently, but positively, and helps it in its important function of throwing out waste materials and poisons from the system.

In thousands of households Black-Draught is kept handy for immediate use in time of need. Prompt treatment often is half the battle, and will often prevent slight ills from developing into serious troubles.

Its well-established merit, during more than 70 years of successful use, should convince you of its helpfulness, obtainable by taking Black-Draught for liver and stomach disorders. Get a package today, and keep it in your house. See that the package bears the words, "Theodore's Black-Draught." "NC-141"

Effler, solemnized in St. Joseph's Cathedral in the presence of a large company of friends. Miss Helen Grady and Mr. Francis Sigrest were the attendants. The bride wore a frock of white georgette with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and her maid was in pink georgette with hat to match. To Mend China. Put the pieces together carefully, the firmly and hold in sweet milk for half an hour. China mended in this way will last for years. When washing fine chinaware, place two Turkish towels, one crossing the other, in the dishpan before filling it with hot water. Put only a dish or two in the pan at a time. Chinaware will not be likely to get nicked if this plan is followed.

MIS-INTERPRETATION

By John Collins Jackson

Bishop Butler, who a century and a half ago was Christianity's ablest opponent of Deism in England, and who also revealed Religion's greatest defender through its analogy with nature, wisely maintained that "it is the province of reason to judge of the morality of Scripture." This was very advanced ground for his day and many Bible teachers and Bible readers have even yet attained it. Inherited opinion is that every statement recorded in any of the sixty-six books, written many centuries apart, and reflecting great differences of moral development, are nevertheless, all on a common level of authority. The Bible itself teaches directly the contrary. The great scholar, Dean Farrar gives us this salutary warning: "Nothing but blessing has ever sprung from the right use, and true understanding, of the Bible; nothing but disaster from those superstitious and perverted uses of it which spring from false methods of regarding it."

Back of this prevailing error in Bible interpretation is its parent error regarding God. "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" is Abraham's purposed plea for Sodom. It was a marvelous moral perception for that early age. Many still fear it sacrilegious to question certain things imputed to God by the average layman, and by some ministers, deeds which would send any man to the gallows or to the electric chair. They share the moral confusion of the boy who, in his beautiful devotion to his mother said: "What ever mother says is so, even if it isn't so." To be sure, it is not right to tell a lie if it would be all right, these people innocently believe.

They think that God makes right and wrong. He does not, any more than He made space or eternity. God does right just like a good man does right. If a thing is morally wrong it would be morally wrong for God to do that thing. God does right because it is right, and He does it from choice, not necessity. When Scripture says that God cannot lie, it means just what it does when it says, "wherever is born of God cannot sin." It does not mean that it would be mentally or physically impossible for God to do wrong, for then He would have given us a power which He himself does not have. God's "cannot sin" is a moral cannot; it is a "will not; and a will not is the best kind of a cannot. Because God is a free agent, and does right for right's sake, we dare not interpret Scripture in ways that make wrong to be right, even if the Bible says that God commanded it. Such surmise are history only; they are no moral standards. They merely record that such things were the beliefs of that age; they were the moral perception of those times. Jesus asks: "Why even of yourselves, judge ye not what is right?" He explained that it was because of their unpreparedness for better precepts, that Moses commanded certain things in the name of Jehovah; "because of the hardness of their hearts," He said. St. Paul justifies Christian non-conformity with such Jewish precepts by explaining, "We serve in newness of the spirit, and not in oldness of the letter." Ignoring these principles in the past led to the defense of slavery, polygamy, the liquor traffic, wars of extermination, and even free-loveism, all in the name of God and the Bible.

The Kaiser believed sincerely in the divine right of kings. He was a disciple of the Old Testament more than of the New. His famous order to his army, when invading China, to spare none, take no prisoners, but kill everything, shocked the world. But he was only echoing Deut. 20:16. "Thou shalt save nothing alive that breatheth"; and I Sam. 15:3 "Slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass." Did God ever give such atrocious orders? Does any enlightened Christian believe that God would do so now? If He did so once, is He better now than He was then?

The miserable subterfuge that God sanctioned such atrocities because of the depravity of the Canaanites, would justify the extermination of the heathen world today. Instead of their evangelization. The fanciful hordes of Mohammedans follow their Bible, the Koran—in massacring the Armenians, believing it the will of Allah, while claiming Abraham as their father. Just so the fanatical John thought he was doing God's will, saying "Come with me, and see my zeal for Jehovah." The historian who recorded his treachery and cruelty, sanctified that opinion in the words of 2 Kings 10:30.

"And Jehovah, said unto Jehu, because thou hast done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and hast done unto the house of Ahab according to all that was in my heart, thy sons of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel." But the more enlightened prophet Hosea, generations later, put this construction on Jehu's misinterpretation of God's will: "And Jehovah said, yet a little while, and I will avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu and will cause the kingdom of the house of Israel to cease." Every deed or word that grates on the moral consciousness of a Christian, even though it be attributed to God, and done unto the house of Ahab according to the Hebrew way of recording things, is to be interpreted according to the teachings of Jesus Christ. The Old Testament must be understood, for the moral guidance, through the New Testament.

Seventy Percent Of America's Child Laborers Found In Country

MILWAUKEE, WIS., June 24—Seventy percent of America's child laborers are found in rural occupations, Dr. Owen I. Lovejoy, General Secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, told the committee's Sixteenth Annual Conference here tonight.

"The other day," he said, "we read that some men had formed a $100,000,000 organization to help the farmers plant co-operative marketing, whereby they could hold their crops for a good market. The National Child Labor Committee has also a $100,000,000 proposition to help the farmer hold his best crop, not for any market, but for himself and the old homestead. By a conservative estimate it is worth at least $100 to his land to give a child a chance to play, develop and go to school. There are more than a million country children who are not getting that chance today."

"Here," declared Dr. Lovejoy, "is an opportunity for investment where there is no possibility of losing. The whole of America will gain."

Dr. Lovejoy asserted that five thousand and children between the ages of 6 and 15 are engaged in raising beets in Colorado alone, according to an investigation conducted by his committee. In Oklahoma children as young as five are picking cotton regularly, while the average daily attendance at school is only 57.2 of the enrollment. "Similar conditions exist in the best fields of Michigan, the tobacco fields of Kentucky and Colorado, the onion fields of Ohio and the wheat fields of Dakota," he said.

"Neither federal nor state laws give these children any protection," declared Dr. Lovejoy, "except that which is afforded by compulsory school attendance laws, and these are nowhere well enforced in the country places. With the growing congestion of cities, the demand on the country for food increases, and yet the best potential farmers are flocking to the city. You cannot," he said emphatically, "keep boys and girls on the farm by depriving them of the play and social life they instinctively crave. It is all right for children to work, but not to be worked at the expense of their health."

Miss Ruth Jackson, who has been visiting her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Jackson, of Hutchins street, left today for State College, Pa., where she is teacher of oratory.

J. P. Menke of Hodgkins street arrived here last evening from Cleveland, where he had been visiting with Floyd Menke and family. Mrs. J. P. Menke and son, Howard, remained in Cleveland for a longer stay.

Sims Is Reprimanded

Assistant American Naval Attaché in London. This is the text, quoted in Secretary Denby's reprimand: "This copy of the speech will show in what respects I was incorrectly quoted in America," said the admiral's reply.

"The essential incorrectness of the reports that were made to this side is contained in the following paragraph from your letter (referring to Secretary Denby's letter quoting the accounts of the speech printed in American newspapers):

"We have a class of people on the other side, who are technically Americans, some of them born there, some naturalized. They are at war against America, today and at war against you. The simple truth is they have the blood of American and English boys on their hands."

"In no part of my speech did I make any such statement as that just quoted above.

"My reference was to the Sinn Féin faction of the Irish people who fought us during the war and to the Sinn Féiners in America who assisted to fight us during the war. The above will show the essential difference between the two statements.

"Referring to the enclosed copy of my speech, I quote as follows:

"I have never hesitated to say that the Sinn Féin sympathizers in America, who helped the Sinn Féiners in Ireland to fight the allies during the war, had the blood of English and American boys on their hands."

"The above is the vital misquotation that was made on this side, and as far as I have been able to judge from the comments in the press, is this misquotation which has naturally caused so much discussion."

Admiral Sims left tonight for Newport, R. I., where he will resume his duties as president of the Naval War College. He went abroad several weeks ago to receive a degree from an English university. After his London speech his leave was revoked by Secretary Denby and he was ordered to return to America immediately.

The officer will be furnished with a copy of the reprimand, and it was explained, another copy will be attached to his record. Other copies, naval officers said, will be distributed to the naval air service in the form of a general order to be read to crews of all vessels and stations along with other orders, on the first Sunday of the month, after promulgation of the service.

Harding Displeased

by a quarter of a billion dollars on hand which it stands ready to pay to the roads whenever an agreement can be made on claims.

Railroads Put in Maximum Claim Like a great many concerns which did business with the government, however, during the war the railroads put in a maximum claim feeling perhaps that the exact figures could be arrived at in conference later on. The government wants to pay what is fair and probably the railroads will be glad to get an equitable adjustment (so, but the railroads have not shown as much interest in settling these claims as the government would like to see manifested. Every once in a while a railroad executive comes down and after a conference with government authorities agrees to the settlement proposed but what President Harding intimated at the conference of bankers was that the railroads ought to get busy and send more of their executives here and dispose of the question promptly. He was very diplomatic in his reference to the railroads and spoke only in the sense that he believed the railroads ought to co-operate with the government which he insisted was more than anxious to help.

The payment of a quarter of a billion dollars to the railroads would enable many factories going and would enable the railroads to do many things, the neglect of which at present is having psychologically bad effect on kind business with the government.

Jobbing Mills Start Tuesday

At the office of the Whitaker-Glossner Company Saturday afternoon it was announced that the jobbing mills would resume operations Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock.

All jobbing mill employees are urged to govern themselves accordingly.

The mills were idle this week of industries.

The general tone of the answers to Mr. Harding's questions about business conditions was optimistic. Some of the bankers said the farmers were getting on a much sounder basis and that considering pre-war prices of wheat the agricultural industry of the country was reaping fair prices. Of course that's the banker's view but it is significant to contrast these expressions from western bankers today with the cries of distress which were being raised six and nine months ago.

Mr. Harding asked for suggestions and declared his anxiety to receive any proposals which might help the general business situation. George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago, took the position that America's first duty is to cure for 95 percent of our business which he said was domestic and let the other 5 percent of foreign business take care of itself. He argued that improvement in Europe through foreign trade financing was not worth buying at the price of America's impoverishment.

In answer to this argument was made by other bankers that whatever may be the percentage of business with foreign countries it was a vital passage and could not be ignored. Cotton for instance, always has an exportable surplus which must be financed. To neglect the financing of cotton would damage the south. The same is true of other sections of the country which depends for their existence on the sale of an exportable surplus.

To the dispassionate observer who has no particular relationship to the banker either the East or the middle west it is apparent that the extreme position adopted on the one hand by Mr. Reynolds, who leans more or less toward the idea of forgetting about exports altogether and the attitude of the eastern bankers who feel that in Europe lies the cure for American business stagnation, the president of the United States is steering a middle course. The contact which he has had with the two theories necessarily makes him conservative. The first conference with the eastern bankers disposed of the foreign trade problem by getting an agreement with the bankers to consult with the government as to the purposes of all foreign loans before offering them to the public. That enables the government to prevent the kind of abuses which Mr. Reynolds talked about, namely depletion of American capital resources for the benefit of European development. The second conference with the bankers will result in steps toward the adjustment of war claims made by the railroads and other interests who could use the money owed them to good advantage in helping the country back to an economic normal.

YOUTH WHO WAS KILLED BY BOLT OF LIGHTNING HAD RELATIVES HERE

Jacob Lauermaun, 725 Seventh street, was an uncle of Floyd Lauermaun, 18 year old Columbus youth killed by a bolt of lightning Wednesday afternoon. Lauermaun and a friend, Everett B. Howell, 17, were standing under a tree along Olentangy river near the Columbus canoe club's grounds when struck by the bolt. A brother of Howell was in the water and was stunned. Lauermaun had not been in swimming, but E. B. Howell had been in and had just returned to the bank when killed. Lauermaun was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lauermaun, former Waverly residents, Mr. Lauermaun being a barber there for some years before moving to Columbus several years ago. A double funeral was held in King Avenue M. E. Tabernacle Friday for the two young men. The body of Lauermaun was taken to Waverly Friday night and funeral services were held there today. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lauermaun, Jacob Gehres and Mrs. J. H. Schusky from here attended the funeral.

Seeking Quarters For War Risk Department; Will Open July 1

As a part of the decentralization of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, now located in Washington, D. C., Portsmouth will acquire one of the eleven district stations to be allotted to the state of Ohio. Officials are now in the city looking for offices of sufficient size to serve a headquarters. Under the new system of organization for the Bureau headquarters for Ohio will be located in Cincinnati. Claims in the area covered by each of the district stations such as the one to be established here will be investigated at the local office and recommended to the Cincinnati headquarters. By the new system it is hoped to eliminate much of the trouble and inconvenience and probably a good bit of injustice in the awarding of claims. In the mammoth organization now functioning in Washington little time can be devoted to details of individual cases and valuable time is frequently lost. The new quarters will require an office space of approximately 1600 square feet. A suitable location is expected to be found soon, and the office will probably be opened by July 1st. Insurance at regular intervals for the purpose of adjusting compensation.

Will Hold Joint Services

During the month of July the Central Presbyterian and United Brethren churches will hold joint services on Sunday evenings. The first service will be held July 3 in the Central Presbyterian church, with Rev. E. H. Bailey, delivering the sermon.

Bible Students Move Into A New Home

Beginning Sunday morning the local class of the Intermediate Bible Students Association will be located in the spacious hall on the third floor of the Damarin building corner of Court and Second street. The Association has, virtually, outgrown the quarters occupied for years in the East End, being frequently unable to accommodate the increasing number of people who attend their meetings. They now have one of the best halls in the city, a hall that is cool, commodious and well ventilated. This organization came into special prominence during the war because it was alleged that one of their books called "The Finished Mystery" was said to be disloyal to the Government. The agitation against the organization began with certain pulp charges made in Canada, and spread over the country. Seven of their leaders, including Judge Rutherford, were incarcerated in prison for nine months, but the organization and its leaders were completely exonerated and the charges were shown to be absolutely false. All restrictions were lifted from their literature early in May last year. "The Finished Mystery" was again placed on sale on June 21st, 1920. More than twelve hundred copies were sold in Portsmouth within four days thereafter and the book had a most phenomenal sale all over the country. In Columbus, Ohio, sixteen hundred copies were sold the first day. Since the dawn of Christianity no religious works have ever had such a remarkable sale as is now being had by the publication of the Bible Students Association.

The organization is unique in the religious world in that it has no roll of membership; no assessments of any kind; never takes up a collection; never solicits money; has no salaried officers and no paid ministry. It is supported wholly by unsolicited, voluntary contributions from those interested in this work and the amount spent annually for advertising, halls, public lectures and the publication of literature given away free is almost staggering in its immensity. Regular Sunday morning studies, Sunday evening lectures and Wednesday evening prayer services of the local organization will be held in the Damarin building from this time on. Pastor W. H. Spring will be the speaker on Sunday evening.

 Notices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Sciotoville, for the week beginning June 26th.
 Sunday morning, 9 a. m., preaching service. Subject, The Great Magist.
 The pastor aims to make this service brief, but interesting. It will be of vital interest to both children and adults. We would like the parents to come and bring the children, but send a little folk for we will do them good.

The Sunday school will follow immediately after the morning service.
 This service will be as brief as we can make it during the summer, but we desire for the classes time enough to consider adequately the splendid lessons such as we have been considering for the last few weeks.
 Sunday evening at 7:30 the subject will be "Mylord."
 At this service the ladies of the W. P. M. S. will furnish special music and according to all reports from their last public appearance we know they will give us something worth while.
 Wednesday evening at 7:30 the mid-week prayer service will be held.
 Those who have been present at the last two services give testimony that we have interesting meetings. Now we will have some good things next Wednesday.

 God will never again destroy every living thing. There shall always be winter and summer, seed time and harvest. Eccl.

This Lecture Is Free,
NO COLLECTIONS
 No Money Solicitation Either Directly or Indirectly

Bible Students do not now and never have taught that the earth would come to an end in 1914 or 1925 or at any time. Bible Students teach that the "world" (Greek—Age or Order) legally ended in 1914 and that 1925 marks a special time in the Divine Arrangement for the establishment of the New Order.

Where are we on the stream of time? What is the significance of the present world unrest? "What shall be the end of these Things?"

If you believe the Bible and if you THINK, you will appreciate this lecture.

THIS AFTERNOON
Solvay vs. Excelsior.

In a hard fought game before a tremendous crowd the Steel Plant and N. & W. staged an exciting game to a tie at the 17th Street grounds, last night. The game was called on account of darkness by Umpire Neager. There were a number of fine plays but the best one of the season was a one-handed catch by first-baseman Wells of Steel's hard liner between first and second.

Although the Steelmen outbatted the Railroaders 3 to 1, they could not put over the necessary tally to win after Mr. Connors of Columbus got his bearings.

Lewis of the Steel Plant, although he was only touched for 3 hits could not find the plate and his bases on balls and hit batsmen were his undoing, he being replaced by Doc Test who finished in grand style.

Following is a complete account of the game, play by play:

1st Inning
G. Staten out, short to first. W. Staten gets hit through short. W. Staten second. Staten scored from second on Devoss's slow roller to first. Salisbury gets three-base hit to center field. Stillwell flies out to right. One run, 2 hits, no errors.

Two runs, 3 hits, 2 errors.

DETROIT, June 25.—Detroit hit hard in the closing innings Friday after noon and defeated St. Louis 12 to 0, in the deciding game of the series.

For six innings the game was a pitchers' battle between Davis and Leonard, but in the seventh the former weakened and was driven from the box. Leonard was invincible thereafter, holding the Browns to three hits.

AN EXCELLENT DAY'S WORK

HERE is at last a faint streak of silver lining to the dark pall of waste and extravagance that has overcome all forms and degrees of government.
The house, that some time ago, manifested a fine sense of retrenchment and economy, has stood out stoutly against a contrary disposition on the part of the senate and compelled that body to consent to cut out the sum of $92,000,000 it had added to the house army and navy appropriation bill.
Even to a government that is spending six billion dollars a year $92,000,000 are not to be idly wasted. And the amount is really more important than the figures alone indicate because it shows there can be reductions made at other points.
Let the house keep up its good work. It will be heartily sustained therein by the approval of the country.

ONE OF THE STRAWS

INSIDE information is that Republican leaders are deeply perturbed over the tariff situation.
Campaign promise is out to give everybody protection and make the other fellow pay the taxes, but the matter of redeeming the promises is a different proposition.
Tentative efforts to compose a scheme of higher protection has raised such an undercurrent of protest that the fear is upon the leaders that any general scheme will start a veritable torrent of opposition so now there is much talk that nothing will be done this session, indeed, that the subject may be passed altogether.
This straw, drifting out of Ohio itself, this very week, shows what the framers of a new protective bill are up against. The bakers of the state, in convention, resolved against a raise in the egg tariff because it would make bread higher. Bread is high enough now, twice higher than it was before the war, so the reason the bakers give isn't exactly what's troubling them, we have a suspicion; it is more tariff on eggs will make more cost to making bread and there may be trouble in passing that, along with added profit cost to the consumers.
Further, it has been made fearfully plain to the already strong ranks of the importers, who are always against raise in rates have come powerful recruits in those manufacturers and financiers, who have set their pegs and hopes of big gains on foreign trade. These see plainly enough that the great outside world can not pay cash for American commodities and if these are to reach world consumption there must be conditions that will permit barter and trade, in fact, they see no hope of rehabilitation here or elsewhere without return to the primal practice of swapping commodities.
No, it isn't at all a happy outlook for those who cheerish the delusion that a people can be made prosperous and happy by imposing more taxes on them.

BUT ONE SIDE

D. MORTON W. BLAND, who was hired by an assembly committee to do some snooping around in the penitentiary, hurriedly gives it out that he finds conditions therein as "almost unbelievable and worst of those in any state institution."
Now notice the artfulness of the declaration, insinuating as it does that conditions in all the institutions are bad. Perhaps, they are, but more perhaps they are not. A number of Ohio's asylums of various sorts are known to be conducted after the most approved methods. They must all, however, have aspersions cast upon them because they are run by Jim Cox appointees and it is desired that these be got rid of, a thing designed in the Davis pet reorganization plan, which three-sevenths of the supreme court says, brought disrepute upon itself by sustaining.
Bland specifies for the detection of the public the unbelievable things, which are confining insubordinate prisoners in idle cells for long periods, the promiscuous mingling of the good and bad convicts and the trussing up of rebellious ones for long hours, all "unbelievable," as he measures them. But, possibly, he views these matters with a jaundiced eye. If we mistake not he is an individual who received a cordial, even an urgent invitation from Governor Cox to make himself scarce about a soft state berth. Undoubtedly, he views them differently from Warden Thomas, who is a reformer and an up-lifter in this sort of business. Thomas' theory is that a prison isn't a place to punish a criminal, but to regenerate him. Society owes him something and that something isn't penalty, because it permits and forms the conditions under which he went astray. That being so how is the perversity to be converted unless he is permitted to mingle with the redeemed? Otherwise he wouldn't discover how to be good and the joy of it.
More seriously speaking, it is a sad reflection upon the weakness of human institutions, that a public official like Thomas, who in all sincerity is laboring to improve the depraved and unfortunate, should have aspersions cast upon him on the basis of statements of hardened criminals from whom Bland states he gets his "evidence," principally, a perversity, a thief, a burglar, may tell the truth, occasionally, but he can always be relied upon to lie in any investigation of the place where he is confined.
Long after the public has been properly shocked and had time to assimilate Bland's unbelievable discoveries, Warden Thomas will have opportunity to be heard and reveal an entirely different situation. That is hinted at in the declaration of the warden that the investigation has aroused a spirit of insubordination in the institution, altogether believable.

SAYS SHE WAS HIT ON THE HEAD WITH WINCHESTER RIFLE; SUES FOR $2,500

BRONTON, June 25.—Effie Henry filed suit against Norman Rogers, in common pleas court this morning for damages in the amount of $2,500, through Attorneys Edwards and Riley.
The parties live at Peoria and the plaintiff claims that on May 12, defendant struck her on the head with a Winchester rifle, inflicting a serious and painful wound, which necessitated the care of a physician and caused her intense suffering and mental anguish.

A Government Blow At Marriage?

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 25.—That several of the government departments, by discriminating against married women in cutting down their office forces, are in effect penalizing marriage for those who are already married, and making it less attractive for those who might be, is the claim of women here who are active in the movement to get women working opportunities equal to those enjoyed by men.

Miss Elsie Hill, of the National Woman's Party, states that several of the government departments, which are now reducing their pay rolls, have issued questionnaires to their women employees in order to find out which are married and which are single. A questionnaire sent out by the Air Service, of which we have a copy, is evidently designed to gain further information about the circumstances of the married women. It asks each of these to tell whether she is living with her husband; if not, whether she is legally separated from him; whether the husband is dependent upon her for support; and whether any members of her immediate family are employed by the government, and if so, how much each earns.

Following the issuance of these questionnaires, Miss Hill states, a large number of married women have been dropped from the rolls of the departments without regard to their efficiency. In many cases, she says, married women of long experience and established value, have been dropped for no other discoverable reason than that they are married. At the same time, they are married, the Civil Service is holding examinations for employees of similar grade and kind.

The object of the various departments in dropping married women from their rolls is plain. They are compelled to drop some employees and are eager to drop those who will suffer least hardship as a result. Obviously, the married woman who has an employed husband is less apt to suffer from the loss of her job than the single woman entirely dependent upon her own resources.

Good Intentions
The women recognize this motive and its practical justification. They realize that the bureau chiefs are not trying to strike a blow at marriage. But they claim that in effect it is a blow at marriage, and also at the right of a woman to work and be independent.

It is this latter phase of the question which chiefly interests the women politicians. As far as the effect on marriage is concerned they simply point out that the same conservatives, who contend that woman's place is in the home, are often keeping her out of it, when by measures like this one, they destroy her earning capacity. For the modern American woman generally works because she must. She may also work because she wants to do so, but it is necessity far more than choice that has brought women into the working world. In American cities the number of men who can support a wife and children in a really adequate way has been on the decline for a long time, as both prices and standards of living have risen, while salaries and wages have climbed slowly after them. The departments at Washington like the offices of other American cities, are filled with unmarried girls between the ages of 20 and 30.

The feminists will tell you that these girls are working because they love their independence, and that they would want to continue to work and be self-supporting even though they married. Unprejudiced observers, on the other hand, have estimated that an office of marriage and support from an attractive man with an assured income of ten thousand a year would be rejected by only about one-tenth of one percent of these bachelor girls.
Most of them are working because they have to, and most of them have not married because the good chance has not come along. No doubt many of them do appreciate their independence and they probably appreciate it more after they have made some progress in their work and have become accustomed to the blessings of freedom. But they are workers above all from necessity. Not only ten-thousand-dollar men, but even five-thousand-dollar men, are lamentably scarce. They are quickly captured by the more attractive girls, and usually by girls with social setting and enough money to dress in style, rather than by stenographers living on $25 a week. What the stenographer actually finds available in the way of a spouse is usually a clerk in the same office making anywhere from twenty-five hundred to four thousand a year. She herself may be making as much as two thousand. If she is past the dangerous stage of indifference, she will think a long time before giving up her independent income to share one less than twice as large. Yet that is often what the man wants her to do. He does not want his wife to hold a job.

Working Couples
But there are more and more cases in which the man abandons this point-of-view for the more sensible one. They marry and on their combined incomes are able to establish an attractive home and to save money for the deferred enterprise of having children. The resultant home and family is just as much founded on the woman's earnings as on the man's. There is, in such a case—and there are now many such cases—no more justification for discharging the woman because she has a husband than there would be for discharging the man because he has a wife.
The whole argument was vigorously thrashed out a few years ago when there was widespread effort to deprive married teachers of their jobs. The conclusion in both cases seems to be unmistakable. Leaving out all feminist theory, women in this country more and more have to have gainful employment in order to live. Often they have to work in order to marry, and have children. You may deplore this if you please, as a condition which threatens the home and our ideal of womanhood and all that. Or you may rejoice over it as the beginning of a new era of independence and usefulness for women. But you cannot blink the fact. And as long as women have to work, common justice demands that they must not be discriminated against because of their sex. That is why the women have taken up cudgels against these department questionnaires. The first great object of the National Woman's Party, and of all the other political organizations of women, is to get for women who have to work a fair deal. To this end they intend to push another amendment to the Federal Constitution which is to provide that woman shall not be discriminated against because of sex or marriage. Laws of similar intent are to be introduced into the state legislatures.

The feminists seem to differ greatly as to just what part woman should play in life. Some of them seem to think that she should be primarily wife and mother and others that she should have the whole world of work open to her. But on one point they seem to agree and are hard to refute. The woman who has to work for her living, and perhaps for the living of her children, should not be deprived of her job or paid a lower salary because of her sex.

Man and the Mouse
Did you ever see a mouse in a revolving cylindrical trap trying to climb up what it thought was an endless wire ladder? Well, that is a picture of man in the universe. And, like the mouse, it is his own active desire that keeps the whirling cylinder forever in motion.

Filling Cracks in Shoes
Cracks in shoes, at a point above the small toe of the wearer, may be easily repaired with gelatine, mixed with hot water to the consistency of glue. The crack is filled with the mixture, and the gelatine smoothed down flush with the leather, whereupon one or two coatings of formalin (40 per cent formaldehyde) are applied to the patch. The formalin has the effect of hardening the gelatine, making it waterproof, tough, and insoluble in water.

Jack and Carp
Mr. Dempsey is some scrapper. But some folks think he's a slacker. And he's acquitted of that charge. And he's in training now at large.

Next week, boy, there'll be some scrap. When Jack and Georges fight. And never will there on this map be such a fight for the champion right.
Carpenter has his Croix de Guerre. And France says he's a fighting man. But Carp you'll have to show some war.

To lick this Dempsey clan.
Jacky, boy, Carp's pretty fast. But his speed won't get you down. Climb in the ring and forget the past. And knock him out in the second round.

And Mr. Carp, don't you forget. That Dempsey's more than speed. For Carp, you're Mr. Descamp's pet. And not a fighting weed.
—Ted Gordley of the Times Composing Room.

That Soft edal
The family were entertaining callers one afternoon, and while the grown-ups were talking, the baby crept on the floor. Suddenly there was a loud bump and wild wail. It came from the direction of the piano.
"O, the baby has hurt himself!" cried the mother. "Run quick, dear!" The young father had already dashed toward the piano. He dropped on his knees and groped under the piano for his injured offspring. Presently he returned.
"He fell down and bumped his head on one of the pedals," he reported.
"O, the poor darling! Is it a bad bump?" asked one of the guests.
"No," he answered. "Fortunately his head hit the soft pedal!" —Tit-Bits.

A Real Worry
Harold Lloyd is telling the story of an old dorky "extra" who took two or three days to moon and grow his way through the income tax papers.
"An' nix Ah got more worry," he announced after he had dotted the last "I" and crossed the final "X."
"Now," was the answer, "how hew? Ah can pay mah taxes Ah got to hunt all 'round 'n locate the federal tax-dormist's office!"

Reasonable
The movie producer was giving his final instructions for the production of Part XIX of "The Adventures of Annik."
"The Darling" he addressed the curly-headed hero, "for realism purposes I have borrowed a live lion for this act. The animal will loose you for five hundred feet."
Mr. Darling interrupting him: "For five hundred feet?"
"Yes," replied the producer. "No more than that, understand?"
The hero nodded dubiously. "Yes, I understand; but—does the lion?"

Not In His Class
A clerk in the employ of a Chicago business man, while a fair worker, is yet an individual of pronounced eccentricity.
One day a wire basket fell off the top of the clerk's desk and scratched his cheek. Not having any count, plaster at hand he slapped on three two-cent postage stamps and continued his work.
A few minutes later he had occasion to take some papers to his employer's private office. When he entered the "old man," observing the postage stamps on the clerk's cheek, fixed him with an astonished stare.
"Look here, Tom," he exclaimed. "You are carrying too much postage for second-class matter!" —Harper's Magazine.

A Stranger to Him
A proud young father telegraphed the news of his happiness to his brother in these words:
"A handsome boy has come to my house and claims to be my nephew."
The brother, however, failed to see the point, and wired back: "I have not got a nephew. The young man is an impostor and a fraud."

A Cherry Tree
Red cherries hang upon its limbs. In bunches two and three. They're awful good, though not so large. You may take some if you please. The tree is mine but the fruit is not. But thank the cherry tree.
—Nellie Hunter.

Wisely Said
A gentleman cannot afford to be rude, selfish, abusive or unkind, no matter what sort of people he may be, or what their conduct toward him may be. He may not be able to respect them but he must respect himself.

A. One of the noticeable differences between stars and planets is that stars twinkle while planets do not.

Q. Can aluminum be tempered and used for spiral springs? E. V. W.
A. The Bureau of Standards says that aluminum (the metal) cannot be hardened and tempered by heat treatment as steel can, but some of its alloys are susceptible to heat treatment to some extent. Aluminum is not used for spiral springs.

Q. Where is the Lorelei Rock? C. C.
A. The Lorelei Rock is on the right bank of the Rhine, a little distance below Sankt Goar. The rock is 430 feet high and the river here narrows to about 150 yards.

Q. What causes the puffing sound that a locomotive makes? H. H. M.
A. The Hydrographic Office of the Navy Department says that the "puffing" sound emitted by a smokestack on a locomotive engine is caused by the used-up steam (technically known as the "exhaust") from the cylinder which is fired into the smokestack for the purpose of increasing the draught, and thus directed from a more natural outlet.
It is the firing of the steam in this unusual way that causes the depression which makes the sound. Exhaust steam is also in some engines condensed and carried into the hot water pipes.

Q. What is the difference between an octopus and a devilfish? How large does each grow? D. E. G.
A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that there is no difference between the devilfish and the octopus. In some parts of the country where the devilfish is abundant it ranges from 7-9 feet and weighs from 50-60 pounds.

Q. What position does Georges Carpentier, the French pugilist, occupy among the aviation "aces" of France? R. V. W.
A. Georges Carpentier is not listed as a French ace. He was in the French aviation service as a pilot, but is not credited with bringing down any machines. His observers, however, brought down several.

Pessimist's Viewpoint.
"Father," said the optimist, "what's an optimist?"
"An optimist," said the pessimist, "is a man who tries so hard to be cheerful that he feels sorry to see him overworking himself." —Washington Star.

Not Her Fault
Sejourner at Country Hotel—I am in great haste, madam, and very hungry. Can you get me a couple of fried eggs?
Landlady—Yes, sir.
Sejourner (after long waiting)—It's sometime since I ordered those eggs, madam.
Landlady (with heat)—Drat them hens! Jeff, go to the barn and stir 'em up.

She Wanted Quality
The two sisters were discussing the merits of a new diamond engagement ring which had made its appearance on the finger of the elder girl.
Just then Maizie, their 12-year-old sister came in.
"I don't know how the rest of you feel about it," she said, "but I would be satisfied with a piece of string on my engagement finger if a real man put it there."

A Good Boy
There is a boy in Kansas who has quite a lot of parents admire. He is twelve years old, has graduated from a country school was neither absent nor tardy once in his entire course, and had good grades in all his studies. He mixed business with his schooling, delivering milk and cream twice a day to a list of customers, and goes to church on Sundays.
Capper's Weekly remarks: "Good boy. Also good—father and mother. That's the secret." Quite likely; but we have known some very good boys who have worked their way out of adversity and humiliation resulting from the conduct of trifling and worthless fathers. A boy is not hopeless who has a strain of poor blood in him. Often the superior blood of a mother makes of her sons and daughters community assets.

The Cost of Leisure
A man dislikes to do many things he can do such as pushing a lawn mower, cultivating a little garden, putting in a pane of glass, washing an automobile. A woman dislikes to sew, cook, sweep and do a small washing, even when competent to do them. And possibly it is true that many men and women who might, but do not do these useful things, would have better health and more independence if they did them.

There are other things men and women dislike almost as much as the household and family necessities mentioned. They dislike insolent and servile servants, and the waste they do; and they dislike the outrageous charges for small services done by people who are willing to do them only paid four times what they are worth. Wealth, the ability to pay any price demanded by help, no longer means independence. It may mean freedom from domestic work by service dependence on detested proficients. But is leisure at such a cost of self-respect worth the price? Is it not secured by an abandonment of principle? How quickly and completely would the present rulers of many homes, the servants—learn to respect their employers if men and women of moderate means their domestic establishments! began doing things for themselves in

Surplus Not Sacred
"Northern Pacific dips into surplus to pay dividend," says a headline. All right. Why not? The surplus is money withheld from the stockholders to cover possible emergencies. Is it not? It is not a sacred fund accumulated to teach stockholders self-denial. We dare say surplus has been for more frequently withheld from its owners than wisely distributed among them to protect dividend records. Dividends from a surplus not depleted by such use seems entirely proper—even commendable, to tide over temporary bad conditions.

A Private Who Rided His Time
Captain Fink, late of the Army, who lost a suit for $10,000 damages, instituted after a private who was in his company assaulted him on the street. From the size of the Captain's claim he must have been punished for fair.
In court the former private frankly confessed that the "beating up" was done because of indignation heaped upon him by the Captain when he was in the service, and the jury seems to have regarded the punishment as deserved.
There are a lot of dough boys awaiting opportunity to tell officers who became snobs and tyrants with authority, certain things they will not enjoy hearing.

One divorce scandal dolt tread upon another's heels, so fast they follow; but they never disturb people who shun their soiled feetures.

Washington dispatches indicate gentle treatment of Admiral Sims for his recent "indiscretion" in telling the truth. Our new Secretary of the Navy finds himself in a difficult position of his own making—one which, by the way, has lost him the confidence of many 100 per cent Americans as a prudent officer.

"Hello! old top!" is ruled out by the New York Mail as a greeting for the man in a last year's straw hat.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, June 25.—Cabaret girls, who winked at ducers and sang sweet papa songs, have fallen upon evil days. Cap. Churchill's gaudy food emporium and the athletic gray-haired boniface himself have deserted Broadway. Churchill's, advertised as "A Broadway Institution," is to become the finest cheap snuff cafe in America. It was the cabaret girl's last stand.

Trick eateries are the fashion. Anything different helps dispel ennui. And to while away the tedious, the cabaret girls are appearing upon call in private apartments where stocks of liquor are not depleted. They have had cards printed indicating that they are always ready to scatter sunshine at private dinners.

They will flatter visiting buyers, sing to them and perhaps exhibit the latest shimmy shiver. Some of the cards, printing their telephone numbers and the hours they may be reached, bear unique descriptions, such as: "The Life of Any Party," "The Girl Who Smiles Away Troubles," and "I May Be Bashful, But O My!"

They do not indicate that there is any charge for this professional service, but if a green back or a golden note is found under their plate—well, you know how it is, we girls must live! In the general readjustment that is to take place in their professional careers, many of them do not know where to turn.

It is difficult to go back behind the counter and use a perfectly good voice shouting "Cash boy! Thirty-six out of a dollar!" And it is hard to get up at 7 a. m. again when for years one has been breakfasting in the late afternoon. So they seek the easiest way and become the professional philosopher or dinner lifts.

The cabaret girls are young in years but old in worldliness. They are adepts at polite pillage. They think nothing of permitting a gentleman friend to buy them a bit of jewelry, a hat, or even a frock, but if he thinks that gives him permission to wax sentimental on the way home in a taxi, he may get his ears boxed or his face scratched. Broadway has taught them that every man is fair loot. The bigger the hook, the bigger the loot. And if he gets fresh, he isn't no gentleman.

Of course "ah!" is bad and is hasten to say so, for there is a college professor out in Ohio who has a habit of pointing out any slipshod English at times. He says I show great promise of some day being a writer and if I will quit spitting invectives there is hope. I wish my learned friend would use his influence to correct New Yorkers who trill the word "there." They always say "thr-r-ree." The telephone girl is to blame. She trills it to make it understandable, but now every man who wants to appear girlish imitates her.

A critical Englishman sailing from this dog-eared, bloomin' country the other morning awaited the arrival outside the three mile limit and then turning to his companion, remarked: "Now that we have passed the Statue of Liberty, let us have a Scotch soda! Tohoh, eh, what?"

Only one theatrical production in New York at this writing is playing to capacity business. That is "Sally." The others are drifting along hoping for fair weather. California has sent a lively bunch of players to the Globe in "Sunkist." It shows a lot of California pep, but is not up to Broadway standards. The California actors attend and in their opinion, of course, "Sally" threatens

With all the humorists at large in this country, a mere paragraph can never hope to be asked to go as a mere correspondent, but some day they may exhaust all the other classes of writing folk and ask his opinion of Stubblebeard's favorite pipe mixture.

Mongolian Pony Hardy Animal
For endurance, cleverness and originality the Mongol pony is said to have few rivals. In the depth of winter his owner neither feeds nor provides him shelter. An extra growth of hair and thickness of hoof—for he is never shod—protect him from the bitter cold. For food he learns to scrape away the snow with his forefeet and find the sparse remains of the summer grass underneath.
